Seeds of the Rubber Trees Come to Hand in the Best Condition.

OMMISSIONER WRAY TAYLOR received a letter by the Alameda from Entomologist Koebele, dated City of Mexico, July 3d. In the same mail came about 1100 seeds of the rubber, Castilloa Elastica, in good condition, and out of them the Commissioner says he ought to get 1000 trees. Last year he sent for 2000 seeds or this same rubber from Mexico and Ceylon, but they did not arrive in true condition.

The seeds which have just arrived will be planted out at once in the nursery in good soil and a shady place out of the wind. The germinating of these seeds will be watched with interest as both the Commissioner and entomologist have a high opinion of the Castilloa and have been urged to obtain seeds. These will be planted at the Government nursery.

Koebele has also written to Professor Perkins about his work in Mexico, which he says is progressing most favorably, so much so that if all the insects so far found preying on lantaana could be introduced here this plant would shortly disappear. But he says he must go slow and be positive on every point, so as to not make a single Enjoyed His Visit on Mainland and Is Now in Good Health.

BISHOP GULSTAN RETURNS IMPROVED

Monsignor Ropert Gulstan, Bishop of Panopolis, returned in the Alameda yesterday after a visit to California which gave him three weeks on land and greatly benefited his health. While the visit of the hishop was due primarily to his desire to see about the disposition of some property in Southern California, which recently came into possession of the church, he took advantage of the trip to visit many points of interest and said that he greatly enjoyed the tour.

During the entire time I was in California," he said yesterday, "I found only two days when I felt warm, There was always a cool breeze blowing and the weather even in Los Angeles was bracing and fine. I was almost constantly on the move during my abence, never staying more than three days in one place, and those were the days before sailing, which I passed in San Francisco. While there I saw San Francisco. While there I saw many friends whom I had known here. and I had a very pleasant call upon the archbishop. Altogether I not only had a most pleasing vacation but I feel much better for the outing and I enjoyed myself to the utmost. The ar-J. B. Castle ...... The bishop was much amused by the publication here that his visit had to do with the transfer of jurisdiction over the Catholic mission to the American church. He said the mission was under the charge of the Propaganda at Rome, and he could not see that there was any way in which it could be at-Commission Merchants tached to any other jurisdiction. He said the church being universal there was nothing to be done unless the propaganda should remove him from control and transfer the management elsewhere. All his visits to prelates on the Coast were made from friendship and not for business.
